As the myth says, Narcissus, when he saw his own reflection in the river and fell in love with it, he did not realize it was merely an image. Unable to leave the beauty of his reflection, Narcissus died from his own 'narcissism'. Many of the authors and scholars agree that we do live in a narcissistic culture, in the 'society of narcissism'. This narcissism and lack of loving ourselves can be the ruin of the selves. If the pool of people in a society can find the fine balance between the two, it would result in the so called 'society of self-recognition'. Needless to say how important self-knowledge is. Unfortunately enough the term self-recognition is just a dead blanket term, and the biggest challenge of our lives is to revive it in its true sense.

Programs that are based on ontological themes and terms are to fit the above mentioned challenges. The preconception of the method is crystal clear: we have to learn how to design and make up stories about ourselves – within ourselves - that are both tender and wild at the same time. These stories have to capture our unconscious aims, goals, emotions and the nature of our temperament. The main goal is to get to know our 'unknown self' and make friends with it. We have to take the fate of the self throughout our whole lives in a calm, reassuring, mild way.

The ontological approach – coaching and mediation – is proven many times during the seminars and lectures, just as in personal and organizational coaching.

We are looking for patrons and sponsors (projects) who are happy to provide a home for such an adult education program - and also happy to help in delivering it - that we framed precisely and with high academic consciousness. We are highly practice-oriented; that is what is in high focus with us.

Our already existing educational projects can easily and creatively be combined with all the different, various needs that can come up eventually in certain fields of applications.

I. Accomplishments

- Recommendations –selection-

- 'József Kollár is an exceptional gift in the mental sphere...'
Csaba Pléh, Professor; Academician
- 'Krisztina Déri Kollárné managed to make significant changes within the field of hierarchic informational and decision making systems. Moreover, she was able to massively change the approach and methods of organizational and improvement culture at the same time.'
Erika Kalman, Professor; Executive
- 'I thoroughly studied the program of the training. It is overly brilliant, more than useful and relevant from conceptual point of view.'
Orsolya Hoffmann, PhD, Professor; Head of the Kodolányi János College,
- 'He combines the scientific results of the discipline in a creative way. With this he opens new windows to the whole world as well as to us. Makes you think and think, think it over and over again and inspires you to DO things and find your way.'"
Tamas Rusznak PhD, former Executive of State Banking Supervision, Professor, Master Coach
- 'With the help of all the tools of ontological coaching we are not buried under problems, but we are rather considering the possible and probable resolutions with which we are able to leave all the above-mentioned behind us. This should be applied by everyone! Kriszti and Jozsef show us the 'how to'-s and the road that leads to resolution.

Szilvia Lengyel, Congressman

- 'The Kollár Coaching Institute helped me to understand the professional background of mediation and also managed to help me learn it through great practice. Our Leads Tutors – Krisztina and József – put all the possible efforts and all their knowledge to guide us on the road of learning. During these days we followed an elaborate syllabus.
As a student I became more and more as days went by. Many thanks!

Tunde Szabo PhD, Olympic Swimming Champion (Silver medals: European Championships, World Championships, Olympics), Secretary of the Hungarian Swimming League

- Their professional certificates are perfect. As I see it, the courses and training itself, as well. Rest assured that I keep track of the results and improvements.
- What they do is a great treasure of big value for us.

II. Trainings, Programs

Ontological coaching and mediation

The syllabus of the coach trainings is based on the required competences listed by ICF and also being accredited multiple times: (FAT, PAT, KIM-IRM, IACM). Currently we are working on the preparation of the international accreditation at ICF.

Our trainings are compatible with all the laws currently in force in Hungary. (Further reference: 63/2009. (XII. 17.) IRM) Our organization provides trainings in order to suit all the regulations of the Ministry of Justice and Law Enforcement (IRM).

Postgraduate value in credits: 10 credits

Nowadays it is of great importance to understand that not only people going through a crisis need pieces of advice. Individuals like leaders, managers, contractors and so on also need pieces of advice in their private life or at their work. They ask for help because they want to develop, be more successful, and who also want to use creativity in all of the different areas of their lives.

An organization (either a family or a company) stays stable and unchanged – in a rather paradox way – because of the changes they undergo. On the other hand, if changes do not take place, the organization can easily collapse, and it can transform in contrast to the will of the agents in it. Due to the above, aiming stability is the engine of the change itself. It is true though vice versa: aiming the changes can be the reason of a certain system's fixedness.

Our main goal is to train professionals who understand the structure of the informational society, who are able to give advice with the help of the science of logic as well as decision management. They are able to do so on certain and high levels. They are providing help to leaders as well as to those in private life crisis. The knowledge gained through the trainings make students able to interfere in social systems at any level effectively.

This form of trainings is designed to those who would like to help and lead individuals, employees and groups who are turning to them for help in case of any kind of crisis. This form of trainings is designed to those who would like to be talented in career planning and everyday life management, too.
